Subject to SE?	Almost always YES. But could be NO if Reg. ¶1.1402(a)(4)(c) is properly applied...see Example 3 in SE section.	NO....Generally, not subject to SE But watch out for Reg. Section 1.1402(a)-(4)(c)...this is cited in PPC's 1040 Deskbook, Key Issue 16E, the preparation pointer just after the 6 exceptions. Also see discussion in SE section.
